Making research careers work:

a review of career pathways in health and social care in Wales

February 2022

- ❧ Collaborative review of the training and career development pathways for researchers in the health and social care community in Wales published in February 2022.
- ❧ Focus on research careers for health and social care professionals across all disciplines, all sectors and specialties and at all stages of research careers.
- ❧ Outcome: a set of 17 recommendations to improve opportunities for research career pathways for health and social care researchers in Wales.

Health and Care Research Wales Faculty

- Coordinate and oversee a range of widely accessible (and targeted where needed) personal research award schemes for health and social care researchers across professions and at different stages of their careers.
- Publish researcher equality, diversity and inclusion data and develop action plans to help facilitate the equal representation of all groups, across career stages and professions, in the Welsh researcher population.
- Progress the individualised and peer learning and development and mentorship that our health and social care personal award holders need to advance their research careers.
- Foster interdisciplinary interactions and networking across the faculty community of health and social care personal award holders from all backgrounds and all areas of Wales.
- Enable opportunities for the sharing of high-quality faculty research with relevant UK and international communities with a view to raising the awareness of profile of Welsh research and promoting the research career opportunities of the researchers themselves.
